Immediately after the regular morning service on Sunday, the Monroe Baptist Church of Richmond extended a call to Rev. A. J. Hall to become its pastor. The continued ill health of Rev. J. C. Hiden, who had temporarily accepted the pastorate, made it impossible for him to assume the duties of the permanent pastorate.

Fred A. Baker, of Detroit, one of the leaders of Michigan's silver men, is loser in the supreme court in the celebrated case commenced by Stephen Baldwin to compel him to accept 364 silver dollars in payment of a mortgage. Frank Sirbaugh, a young man of about 26 years, was arrested in Winchester on Monday morning by Officer Hollis on the charge of being implicated in the murder of Sol. Kleaser and Mrs. Ann Dorman, at Magnolia, near Paw Paw, W. Va., on the night of Sept. 21st. The arrest was made on information furnished by Deputy United States Marshall J. F. Paulding, of Martinsburg. The officers came to Berryville in search of another person believed to be implicated in the murder, and while they thought the description answered to the man they were after they could not find him. The murder was committed for robbery, and $1660 was secured.

S. L. Palmbaum has just received a complete new line of Dress Goods Novelties, together with a fine stock of Men's shirts and Underwear, and Ladies' Furnishings.

The last Warren Sentinel says there "is a widespread desire for a good fair somewhere in the lower Valley, composed of the counties of Frederick, Clarke, Warren, Page and Shenandoah," and suggests Front Royal as the best railroad centre for such a fair. The experience of the present day with fairs already in existence does not encourage the formation of new associations of this kind. In all probability the Winchester fair would have failed had it not been for the generosity of Mr. Rouss. The public has lost much of its interest in these exhibitions, either from their lack of novelty or some other cause.

You will find what you want in Carpets, Rugs, Mattings, and the prices will please you at the Berryville Furniture Parlor.

The Captain received a summons on the morning he left here to attend court at Salem, Va., but a more agreeable and sweeter court had a prior engagement on his time, and he obeyed it. As courts pay due regard to first liens, it is hoped the Salem judge will not overlook this plea in the Captain's favor.

In Wisecarver vs. Wisecarver, from Frederick county on appeal from a decision of the circuit court, the Court of Appeals has held that the word "damage" used in an injunction bond to pay expenses in case the injunction is dissolved, does not apply to expenses of counsel. It is said a rule to the contrary has always prevailed in our lower courts.

We are informed that the chestnut crop is a large one. Tradition says that when the mast crop is heavy, and weeds grow tall and are loaded with seed, they prove that nature is preparing for a hard winter. The weeds are abundant and tall enough to show above any fall of snow, and the acorn crop is a fairly good one.

Those of our young people who are interested in taking a course in charcoal drawing, pencil drawing, oil painting and water color are directed to the advertisement of Miss Laura W.
